

CITY TO CELEBRATE OPENING OF ARMS PARLEY IN GALA FASHION

PEACE PAGEANT SUGGESTED AS CHIEF FEATURE

Royal Welcome Planned for Foreign Delegations and Host of Visitors.

RUDOLPH MAKING PLANS Hotels and Private Citizens to Join in Elaborate Hospitality Arrangements.

Washington will celebrate November 11, 1919, the date of the beginning of the conference on limitation of armaments, with the same enthusiasm it welcomed the end of the war on November 11, 1918.

A royal welcome, with every home, office and street decorated with American and foreign flags, will be accorded the delegates when they gather for the big conference.

Although no definite plans have been made, it is probable a mammoth pageant, depicting the work which the coming conference expects to perform, will be staged at the Capitol or on the Monument lot.

Rudolph in Charge of Plans.

The job of preparing the welcome to the thousands of visitors expected here is in the hands of District Commissioner Cuno H. Rudolph, who has been elected chairman of a central committee to provide for the "pleasure, safety and comfort" of the delegates and their friends.

Commissioner Rudolph is besieged with suggestions and offers of aid. Next Tuesday he, with the other commissioners and prominent business men, will gather in the District building and organize a permanent committee to arrange for a mammoth welcome.

The railway companies are preparing special schedules for November, as more than 25,000 visitors, outside of delegates and their entourages, are expected to flock to Washington to watch the proceedings at the conference.

May Ask Societies' Aid.

The aid of patriotic and other associations in Washington probably will be asked next week by the central committee.

The celebration, which will last from the time the delegates reach Washington until they take their trains home, will be the best Washington can give. All public buildings will be thrown open and the delegates will be conducted in and out of every corner of the Government's institution in Washington.

The Lincoln Memorial, now practically completed, will be the chief public building attraction here. It is expected all of the delegates will be taken to that building.

Hotels are expecting a big business and the lobby of every hotel will be decorated with flags and flowers.

Parade and Carnival Week.

It has been suggested that a large street parade be organized and that a mammoth pageant and carnival be given on the night of November 11. That suggestion will probably come up at next week's meeting.

Special police protection will be afforded the delegates and it is expected that a detail of police or detectives will be assigned to each delegate. In that case it will be necessary to bring detectives and policemen from Baltimore and Philadelphia.

6,000 5TH DIVISION MEN AT PHILADELPHIA REUNION

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—The Fifth Division of the A. E. F. opened a big reunion here today with about 6,000 "buddies" and 200 "buddyettes" present, the latter being the wives, sweethearts, and female relatives of the men.

An appropriation of $10,000 has been granted by the city for the entertainment of the veterans. "The day of bunting and flags in honor of the men who broke the German lines at Meuse."

Tomorrow the visitors will entrain for Atlantic City, where they will spend the day. On Monday a big parade will be held here. General Pershing is expected to address the men at Independence Hall.

COURT UPHOLDS RIGHT TO DEPORT ALIENS

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The authority of the Department of Immigration to deport immigrants in excess of the monthly quotas for their nationalities was upheld yesterday by Judge Mack, in the Federal district court. The ruling was made when he dismissed a writ of habeas corpus obtained for a Greek immigrant ordered deported because he had arrived here after the August quota for Greeks had been filled.

This decision affects scores of other immigrants of various nationalities awaiting deportation. Attorneys for the Greek contended their client should be allowed to land as part of the September quota.

14 QUARTS OF WHISKEY SEIZED IN HOUSE RAID

Fourteen quarts of whiskey and three quarts of gin were seized and A. G. Mandes and James Zarudee were arrested in a raid Friday night on the house at 1811 L street northwest by Detective Barbee, of the Second precinct, and Internal Revenue Agent F. T. Rose.

Mandes and Zarudee were charged with selling liquor in violation of the prohibition law.

SHERRILL CLEANING UP FOR ARMS MEET

Would Have Delegates Remember Washington as World's Most Beautiful Capital.

In Washington the most beautiful capital city in the world.

Special efforts to have the visiting delegates to the arms conference, which opens next November, carry this opinion away with them are to be made by Col. Clarence O. Sherrill, Superintendent of District Buildings and Grounds, the District Commissioners and other Government officials, who are taking an active part in the general clean-up campaign to have Washington a spotless town by November.

Already Colonel Sherrill has set a special force of laborers to cleaning up Potomac Park, clearing up weeds in the Potomac gardens and other places within the park. It is hoped that by next month all of the crops will have been removed by those cultivating the gardens and then the laborers will be put to work in generally cleaning up the gardens and removing the cornstalks, vines and weeds of all sorts.

"Potomac Park will be particularly clean by the time the delegates start arriving in Washington," declared Colonel Sherrill today, "and special efforts will be made to have all public buildings looking as good as possible."

Already many of the Government buildings have started sprucing up for the visiting delegates, nearly all of whom are sure to inspect them. At the present time a force of painters and decorators is working on the interior of the Treasury Building, painting the large corridors throughout the structure. The State, War and Navy Building has already received its annual bath with the aid of the District Fire Department, which recently played several streams of water on it for several hours, and it now looks neat and clean. The Capitol and other public buildings have also received such treatment.

Many of the temporary war structures in the vicinity of Seventh and B streets are now in process of demolition, and will be completely razed by November.

"The District Commissioners will receive every possible aid from us in making Washington a spotless town," today declared Colonel Sherrill, "and I am sure that every resident of the District will do his share in the campaign."

Oysters in Big Demand.

MAURICE RIVER, N. J., Sept. 10.—There has been a good demand for oysters, and heavy shipments have been made each day. There is a belief that as soon as cool weather comes the oystermen will have all they can do to supply the trade.

Mrs. "Jim" Davis Says She Enjoys the Duties of Household Management.

OF course, the menage of the Secretary of Labor at Mooseheart, Ill., where his wife and children spend the summer, is complete with cooks, maids, chauffeurs, and everything, but that doesn't prevent Mrs. Davis from helping out on wash day if the cook goes on strike.

In fact, it has been told on good authority that once this year when the domestic machinery got clogged, Mrs. Davis had the washing tumbled into the tubs and declared her independence by doing the washing all by herself.

Mrs. Davis couldn't be Mrs. Davis without being humanly democratic, because "Jim" Davis is still "Jim" Davis, though he has been made Secretary of Labor.

Today, when the Secretary of Labor receives some of his old pals from the steel mills, he greets them with a solar plexus reminiscent of old times.

Mrs. Davis probably would be characterized as old-fashioned, in that she enjoys her home and the performance of the usual domestic duties, in addition to answering the never-ending questionings of Jimmie, Jr., now four, and pacifying little Elizabeth Jane, who is only eighteen months.

While they have a home in Pittsburgh, they generally go to Mooseheart for the summer, where Mrs. Davis helps to mother the thousand orphans living at the home maintained there by the Loyal Order of Moose, of which Secretary Davis has been director general for the last fifteen years. Here they are joined by the Secretary on week-ends, when his duties will permit.

Mrs. Davis and children will come to Washington the latter part of this month and make their home at Wardman Park Inn.

PLAN MODERN BRICK PLANT IN WINCHESTER

WINCHESTER, Va., Sept. 10.—An announcement has been made that a modern brick plant, with a capacity of 5,000,000 brick a year—or more if necessary to meet the demand of Winchester and this section—is to be established in this city in the very near future. It is stated that the new plant will employ fifty men.

The financing of the industry is now under way, and a site has been selected. The plant will be a branch of the Colonial Brick Corporation, of Baltimore.

BILLY SUNDAY SEES PERIL IN DISARMING

"Would Be Easy Pickings Minus Army and Navy," Says Famed Evangelist.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—As warlike in national affairs as he is in his contest with the devil, the Rev. William A. (Billy) Sunday, noted evangelist, is opposed to disarmament by the United States, at least until all the other great powers agree to the same program.

"We would be easy pickings minus our army and navy," said Sunday. He opposed the idea of open sessions in the common disarmament conference to be held in this country in November.

"There is no question about it in my mind," said the noted evangelist. "The disarmament conference should be secret. These men who are going to participate in it from every great power in the world are experts in their line. Their methods and their motives would not be understood by the uninformed men, like myself and others."

HERRICK'S MAIL JAMMED WITH NOTES OF LOVE

Lonely Congressman's Plaint Answered by Miss Whose Heart Tells Her What's What.

MASSACHUSETTS REPLIES

Quincy Girl's Letter Sounds Like Spoofing—D. C. Maiden Writes From Hall Room.

Affairs of state will have to go hang in so far as Congressman Manuel Herrick is concerned, if he is to patch up the broken hearts that lie strewn in the wake of his recent beauty contest.

The "loneliest man in Washington" is now so busy reading love missives from adventurous girls that he has become one of the busiest members of Congress.

Manuel, swamped by love missives, came up for air and begged, "Hold, enough," but girls from distant cities failed to hear. They took their pens in hand and poured out their souls and Postmaster General Hays' express service did the rest.

Signing herself "Lovingly, Loretta," a Chicago girl who lives on Fairview avenue has written to say that she fell in love with the Oklahoma congressman as soon as she saw his picture in the paper and learned of his plight.

Here is the Chicago girl's proposal: "Dear Sir:

"No doubt you will be surprised to hear from one so far away. I have read about the beauty contest for your love and was impressed forcibly by the wording and your description of yourself.

"I really know, although I have never seen you, that I love you and what I want to know is would you let me correspond with you personally?"

"Will you kindly answer my letter and send me your picture? Is Chicago so far off that you couldn't call on me? I'd marry as soon as I saw you, Mr. Herrick, as I know I love you and have always loved you. To prove my love for you, if you come after me I will go to Washington or anywhere with you, to work for you, even die for you, as I know I love you.

"I have light brown hair, dark eyes, and, not because I am conceited, am considered exceedingly pretty. I am nearly eighteen, but difference in age should not matter. I weigh 125 pounds, and am five feet six inches.

"I will anxiously await a letter from you. Give me some hope, as I know I will nearly die broken-hearted if you don't!"

"You may think it strange but somehow I know my heart tells me I love you. Let me be the happy one.—OH, do meet me some way! Surely you can write!"

"You write and I will send my picture. Please don't forget to write and if it is possible call as soon as I want you to marry me as I know I love you and can make you happy."

"Write to "Loretta," "P. S.—Hoping you will send my answer with some kind of hope as soon as possible, is "Lovingly, "Loretta."

More Love Notes.

Here is another missive from a Washington girl. Herrick observed that "the writer seems to be right smart and educated."

"My dear, Mr. Herrick: I have just finished reading the article regarding your 'Love Contest' in The Times.

"This is Sunday afternoon, a lovely afternoon, and I am in my little two room in a boarding house—and I am lonesome. I feel like humming (you remember that tune, Mr. Herrick), 'Nobody Knows,' and I thought perhaps you might care.

"Engaged—yes—to the office every day.

"Religion—the Golden Rule, also get along (honestly) yourself and help the other fellow if you can.

"My age—that is a question—you know the old saying, a woman is as old as she looks. It is your guess.

girl in the next room says I have a jolly disposition flavored with wit. "Nationality—100 per cent American."

"I would be willing to live anywhere with the man I love, providing, of course, that he loved me. For my conception of an ideal thing is to love and be loved.

"I like your picture, which appears in today's issue of The Times, and have cut it out with the intention of framing it. I wonder if I may not see the original some time. Of course, I could come up and sit in the gallery."

Bay State Responds.

Massachusetts has at last been heard from. Herrick was apparently offended that girls from the Bay State ignored his contest. He discussed it with reporters. Along comes Miss Kathleen Meroth, of Quincy, Mass., with a proposal of marriage.

Miss Meroth writes: "Mr. Herrick: "My Dear Sir—I take my pen in hand to let you know why you are going so slow with girls in Massachusetts. Your only fault, in our eyes, is that you are too good to be true. We don't feel worthy, Mr. Herrick, of all that rectitude of yours. Our aloofness, therefore, is not cool Boston disdain, but Massachusetts humility. It's you, the grand prize at the end, with your stainless past and similar future, which gives us cause to think. This letter, therefore, while not an out-and-out proposal, is, nevertheless, an entering wedge."

"I want no weak tea virtues, of a sheepish King Arthur, in any husband I would marry. Why, Manuel, don't you remember what happened to that poor gentleman? His wife left him for Launcelot, who was NOT SLOW

3 Russ Generals Get Jobs Picking Grapes in France

MONTPELLIER, France, Sept. 10.

ONE hundred Russian refugees recently answered an advertisement of a vineyard owner offering temporary work at grape picking.

Fifty of them were engaged, among whom the owner was astounded to find three former generals of the Russian imperial army.

AT THAT.

Which always happens to a husband when he is too darn good. So, Manuel, if you hope to succeed with me you've got to grow a voice or two, and learn how to smoke tobacco. Step lively! Stain that unstained soul of yours! Develop an interesting sin. Become the man with the deep, dark mysterious romantic past. That's the only man who interest Boston women. For he is stimulating to the imagination. All others have no chance with me. Comprenez-vous, Monsieur Herrick? I pause for a reply. Truly,

"KATHLEEN MEROTH."

Briand Denies Change.

PARIS, Sept. 10.—Premier Briand today formally denied that he had given up his intention of going to Washington to attend the Far East and disarmament conference.

A. A. BUREAU INVITES QUERIES OF TOURISTS

Information on Road Routes and Laws Will Be Given Out Cheerfully.

Motor tourists arriving in Washington after 5 p. m. and desiring road information so that an early start may be made the following morning, will find a completely-equipped branch of the A. A. A. touring bureau in the main lobby of the New Willard Hotel, Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue.

This branch was established for the convenience of tourists desiring information before the opening and after the closing of the A. A. A. main offices. All the service available at headquarters may be had at the Willard station.

The main touring bureau, at 1103 Sixteenth street opens at 9 a. m. and closes at 5 p. m.

Members and non-members alike are invited to make use of the facilities of both offices, including national, State, and local road maps; special routes prepared; hotel and garage information; campsites and how to camp; State motor laws, covering reciprocity, license fees, speed limits, headlights, signals, traffic and all other essential touring information.
